According to a field school student paper located in the museum’s archive, “Though we were unable to collect any debris or other artifactual material on the surface, the owner, Mr. Otto Nemec of Crandon, has a large collection of points which he has found on this site through the years, and showed us a human femur which came from a historic period burial which was destroyed during the construction of the landing strip.” Mr. Nemec presumably gave the human remains to Dr. Robert J. Salzer, Beloit College Professor of Anthropology, who directed the survey. No known individual was identified. No associated funerary objects are present.
